

Psyched About Schools

DEAR TIM

Dear Tim:

I just read that 16 Upper Arlington High School students have been named National Merit Semifinalists. With all the complaints you hear about how our education system is going to hell in a handbasket, it seems quite the opposite here. What's the secret?

-Applauding on Lauraland

Dear Applauding:

I'm not at all surprised. I've had the chance to meet and hire a lot of UA students over the years, and their hard work and dedication never cease to amaze me. Of course, the hard work and dedication of their teachers and parents shouldn't be forgotten in all this. Our kids' families have a big impact on their success, and I think that's the case in our community. That's why we're big supporters of the Ohio Grocers Foundation's Parents Week and Family Meal Night initiatives. Because family matters.

Dear Tim:

This football season has been a little sour so far. Any thoughts?

-Disappointed on Dierker

Dear Disappointed:

They can't all be sweet. Unless, of course, you're talking about Emlolly Candy. Every one of their Block O Buckeyes is a sweet victory. And we could always use more of those. They're on the table in the back aisle.
