

Restrained About Resolutions

DEAR TIM

Dear Tim:
Everyone always leaves treats out for Santa. What about the reindeer? Shouldn't they get a little something for their trouble on Christmas Eve?
-Activist on Andover

Dear Activist:

I spent some time with the reindeer this week, and though they don't openly complain about this annual oversight, I'm sure they'd appreciate a little love. Their favorites: moss, willow and birch tree leaves, and some types of arctic fish. You probably won't find a lot of those around here, so you might want to go for something they see as a bit of a treat: mushrooms. We've got a few kinds in our fresh produce case. And be sure to let them know that Tim tipped you off. It might get me back on the "nice" list.

Dear Tim:

I've resolved to quit smoking in the New Year. Anything on your to-do list?

-Resolved on Reed

Dear Resolved:

Good for you. And you'll make all the people around you happier and healthier, too. I must say I'm not very big on resolutions. I prefer instant gratification. Like the kind you get from a lottery ticket. Get yours at the Service Desk and start your New Year off like Charlie Sheen: "Winning!"
