

Wise About Eyes

DEAR
TIM

Dear Tim:

I just went to the eye doctor for a checkup and it turned out I needed a new prescription. Between the exam, the glasses and the contacts, I spent hundreds of dollars and I only see a little bit better. I don't think it was worth it, do you?

-Myopic on Millwood

Dear Myopic:

That depends. If seeing a little bit better means choosing a cuter girlfriend or avoiding oncoming traffic, I think you made the right call. Of course, if you're looking for a cheaper solution to improve your eyesight going forward, I hear carrots are good for the eyes. Ours are organic. Grab a bunch in the produce section in aisle 1. They're either $1.49 or $14.99 a bunch, depending on whether you're wearing your glasses when you come in and who's working the register.

Dear Tim:

I have this map app on my iPhone that lets me find anything anywhere. Cool right?

-Finder on Fishinger

Dear Finder:

You bet. Just as a test, why don't you have it help you find 2140 Tremont Center? It's an Upper Arlington landmark. And while you're at it, can you find that *%#@ sock that always goes missing from my dryer?
