

Nutty Ideas

Dear Tim:

I hear you transferred your liquor license to Kroger. I assume that means you'll have some space in the center of the store for new items. Up for any suggestions? I'm thinking the world's widest variety of nuts. Pistachios. Macadamias. Almonds. Anything you can think of. They're healthy, high in protein and easy to display. What do you think?

-Nutty on Nottingham

Dear Nutty:

Your name says it all. Don't get me wrong, I love nuts as much as the next guy. But you, me and the next guy aren't our only customers. We can't keep an entire grocery running when 1/6 of the space is dedicated to nuts. But your nutty idea has given me an idea of my own. If any of our readers have non-nut-related ideas about what we should do with the center section of the store, I'd love to hear them. Email me at info@huffmansmarket.com and we'll see what we can do.
