

Which Watch?

Dear Tim:

I'm thinking about getting one of those new smartwatches, but I can't decide between the Apple Watch or the Samsung Gear. They're both pretty slick from a design standpoint, and the amount of feedback they give you is hard to believe. But I'm more interested in the quality and performance of the chips they're running. What do you know?

DEAR
TIM

Dear Watching:

Not much. The only thing I know about new electronic devices is what my grandkids bring with them when they come to visit. And the only thing I know about chips are that California cop show from the 70s and what we sell in aisle 6. So if you want to know about Lay's or Pringles or Fritos or Cape Cod, I'm your man. But if you're looking for a real review of new technology, you might want to look elsewhere. Way elsewhere.
