

Embracing The Bitter

Dear Tim:

Around the holidays I was thinking that winter would never arrive. Now I'm pretty sure it will never end. I don't really buy in to this seasonal mood disorder thing I've been hearing about, but I will admit I'm a little off my game. Got any winter survival strategies?

-Down on Dorset

Dear Down:

I'm with you. I was hoping for a white Christmas, but when it didn't come I started hoping winter might just pass us by this year. No such luck. So I say don't bemoan it; embrace it. Find ways to make the rest of the winter less of a slow march and more of a party. Stock your fridge with some of our seasonal brews like Mike's Glacier Berry, Bell's Winter White Ale and Brew Kettle Winter Warmer. Invite some friends over and start a fire. It may not make winter go faster, but it sure will make it more fun.
