

Impressed By Progress

Dear Tim:

Have you been serving Red Bull to the Tremont Road construction crews, because it seems like they're moving incredibly fast out there?

-Optimistic on Onondaga

Dear Optimistic:

I wish I could say I had something to do with it, but I think you're right. They're really making it happen out there. The stretch between Five Points and Ridgeview is done and looks amazing. And the portion they're doing in front of our store has seen a lot of progress, too. They originally estimated it would be done in September, but the guys I've talked to are saying it could be as early as July if the weather cooperates. I'm sure their financial incentives from the city are motivation enough, but if some free Red Bull from aisle 1 would "give them wings" and make the process go even faster, I (and all the other great businesses here at Tremont Center) might just pony up.
