

Longing For Lamb

Dear Tim:

My visit to the Ohio State Fair put me in the mood for some lamb. What have you got?

—Lamb Lover on Langston

Dear Lamb Lover:

Must have missed you at the fair. We were there, too, and, in fact, we brought back lots of lamb. We've got leg of lamb, rack of lamb, lamb loin chops, lamb rib chops, lamb liver, lamb heart, boneless leg of lamb, butterfly leg of lamb, ground lamb, leg of lamb steak, lamb shoulder roast, lamb shoulder chops, lamb sirloin chops and lamb stew. And before I start sounding like Bubba from Forrest Gump, let me remind you that we've got lots of other fair-fresh meats in our meat department as well. We can feed your lamb jones, your beef jones, your pork jones and any other carnivorous jones you may have. And that's all I have to say about that.

Dear Tim:

The Buckeyes are number 1 in our hearts and number 1

DEAR TIM

in the polls. What could be better?

—Fan on Fairfax

Dear Fan:

How about making them number 1 in your stomach, too? We've got chocolaty, peanut buttery buckeyes in aisle 1. They're perfect for any game-day get-together, tailgate party or victory celebration. So you should stock up. Because judging by the looks of this team, there may be quite a few of those this season.

Dear Tim:

My life is getting more hectic by the day. Between work, family and trying my best to stay in shape, I barely have time to follow the news – let alone run errands or have a moment to myself. Something's got to give. I guess what I'm trying to say is, I'm giving up grocery shopping. As much as I love the unique local selection and wonderfully friendly people at your store, I just don't have time to shop anymore. I wish there were another way, but I'm out of ideas. Thanks so much for everything.

—Fried on Friar
